

Table of Contents

Preface	5
Table of Cases	11
Table of Figures and Tables	25
Introduction	27
A. Purpose of the Book	27
B. Antitrust Law	28
C. Private Antitrust Litigation	29
D. Empirical Data	30
E. Plan of the Book	31
Part I. Private Antitrust Litigation in Japan	33
Chapter 1. Historical Background	35
A. Drafting History: Private Enforcement's Hostile Reception	35
B. The Provisions on Private Damages: Japanese or American?	40
C. Exploring the Reasons for Japan's Skepticism Towards Private Enforcement	41
Chapter 2. Damages Actions	49
A. Legal Basis	49
B. No Treble or Punitive Damages	60
C. Standing for Indirect Purchasers and Passing-on	61
D. No Opt-out Class Action Mechanism	62
E. Limited Discovery and Fact Pleading	65
F. Limited Use of Contingency Fees	67
G. Recovery of Court Costs and Attorney Fees	69
H. Funding Mechanisms Other than Contingency Fees	70
I. Calculation of Damages and Interest	71
J. The Evidentiary Value of a Prior JFTC Order or Decision	71
K. The Role of the JFTC in Damages Actions	73
L. Access to the JFTC's File	74
M. The Absence of a Developed Plaintiffs' Bar	79
Chapter 3. Injunctions	81
A. Situation Prior to 2000	81
B. Introduction of the Injunction System in 2000	85
C. Main Features of the Injunction System	86
D. Broader Discovery Rules (Amendment of 2009)	88
Chapter 4. Residents' Lawsuits on the Basis of the Local Autonomy Act	91
A. Residents' Lawsuits and the Local Autonomy Act	91
B. How Residents' Suits Became a Tool to Enforce Antitrust Law	94
C. How Residents' Lawsuits Function	96

D. The Cases	104
E. The 2002 Amendment: The End for Residents' Lawsuits as an Antitrust Enforcement Mechanism?	111
F. Assessment of the Role of Residents' Lawsuits	114
Chapter 5. Other Forms of Private Antitrust Litigation	117
A. Voidness	117
B. Actions Based on Unjust Enrichment	120
C. Antitrust Law as a Defense to the Enforcement of Arbitral Awards	121
D. Derivative Actions	123
E. The Role of Private Parties in Public Enforcement	126
Chapter 6. Empirical Analysis of Japanese Antitrust Cases	127
A. Scope of the Empirical Study and Methodology	128
B. The Number of Cases in the Postwar Era	130
C. A Closer Look at the Numbers in the Last Two Decades	132
D. The Types of Antitrust Violations	134
E. Success Rate	136
F. Do Private Litigants Detect New Violations?	136
G. How Much Have Infringers Paid?	137
H. Who Has Recovered Damages?	140
I. Conclusions from the Empirical Analysis	142
Part II. Private Antitrust Litigation in the European Union	145
Chapter 7. Historical Background	151
A. Early Attitudes	151
B. The Start of Antitrust Law in the European Union: Enforcement Centralized with the European Commission	153
C. The European Court of Justice as Catalyst of Private Enforcement	154
D. The Decentralization of Antitrust Law Enforcement	155
E. Exploring the Reasons for Europe's Skepticism Towards Private Enforcement and the Recent Change	158
Chapter 8. Damages Actions	161
A. Legal Basis and Conflict-of-Laws	161
B. No or Limited Punitive Damages	172
C. Standing for Indirect Purchasers and Passing-on	174
D. Almost No Opt-Out Class Action Mechanisms	177
E. Limited Discovery	181
F. Limited Use of Contingency Fees	182
G. Recovery of Court Costs and Attorney Fees	183
H. Funding Mechanisms Other than Contingency Fees	185
I. Calculation of Damages and Interest	186
J. Evidentiary Value of Decisions by the Competition Authorities	187
K. The Role of the Competition Authorities	189
L. Access to the File of the Competition Authorities	191
M. The Development of a Plaintiffs' Bar	200

Chapter 9. Injunctions	201
A. Legal Basis: National Law but Constrained by EU Law	201
B. Types of Injunctive Relief	202
C. Role of Injunctive Relief	203
D. Types of Antitrust Violations for Which Injunctive Relief Is Available	203
E. Requirements to Obtain Injunctive Relief	204
Chapter 10. Other Forms of Private Antitrust Litigation	207
A. Nullity	207
B. Actions Based on Unjust Enrichment	210
C. Antitrust Law as a Defense to the Enforcement of Arbitral Awards	212
D. Derivative Actions and Other Forms of Litigation	219
E. The Role of Private Parties in Public Enforcement	220
Chapter 11. Empirical Analysis of Cases in the EU	223
A. Sources	223
B. The Number of Cases	224
C. The Types of Antitrust Violations	227
D. Success Rate	228
E. Do Private Litigants Detect New Violations?	228
F. How Much Have Infringers Paid?	230
G. Who Has Recovered Damages?	232
H. Conclusion and Comparison	232
Part III. The Future of Private Antitrust Litigation in Japan and the EU	235
Chapter 12. The Debate About Whether Private Antitrust Litigation Should Be Facilitated	237
A. Clarifying the Goals of Private Antitrust Litigation	237
B. The Need to Ensure Compensation	240
C. The Need for Additional Deterrence	242
D. Determining Whether Additional Deterrence Should Come from Private or Public Enforcement	250
E. Conclusion	253
Chapter 13. Moving Forward: Lessons from the Comparative Analysis	255
A. Collective Actions by Indirect Purchasers	255
B. The Potential Contribution of Injunctive Relief	277
C. The Problems with Special Regimes for Follow-on Actions	280
D. The Lessons from the Residents' Lawsuits Movement in Japan	283
Appendix. The Oil Cartel Cases: Summary and Translation	289
Bibliography	303